

“Models of intensive support management of challenging behaviour in people with learning disabilities: national survey and cluster analysis”

Seminar with Professor Angela Hassiotis
University College London

Wednesday 5 December at 2.15pm - 3.30pm
Room 16G42, Jordanstown campus

Angela Hassiotis PhD MA, professor of Psychiatry of Intellectual Disabilities UCL Division of Psychiatry and Consultant Psychiatrist, Camden Intellectual Disability Service, London. Main interests are epidemiological and health service investigations focussing on mental illhealth and on challenging behaviour in people with intellectual developmental disorders across the lifespan. We are interested in patient and public engagement with science and have directly contributed as author/ co-author to over 200 publications including original papers, book chapters and systematic reviews. Other roles include editorship of the Journal of Mental Health Research in Intellectual Disabilities, associate Director of the IASSIDD Academy for training and Education and visiting professorship at Ulster University.

If you would like to reserve a free place please contact:
l.taggart@ulster.ac.uk. Numbers are strictly limited.